Block and Bridle’s Ag Olympics a hit

By Brittany Shears

Block and Bridle hosted the First Ag Olympics here at Oklaho-
a Panhandle State University on Thursday, April 24 at 4:00. Students from all over campus came out to participate and watch as the one-of-a-kind games went underway. Events included dizzy barrels, in which teams had to run a clover leaf pattern around barrels after spinning around multiple times, and the ultimate challenge, the aggie relay. The aggie relay consisted of four tasks: setting up panels (gates), moving hay bales, carrying a bucket full of water and then pushing a pickup. Other events included wheelbarrow pole bending and the feed bucket toss.

Eight teams competed for the title of Ag Olympic Champions and the $160 prize. The first place team was “Team USA” consisting of Wilson Henry, Tyler Hasenauer, Tina Ferguson and Jarred Lebsock. The second place team was made up of Wrustler Frye, Stephanie Boldin, Rafe Schroder, and Dane Noe who together won a total of $80. John Schmidt said that the third place team was a surprise, rounding out the top three. The team “Old PSU” consisted of people many students have met in offices and classrooms around campus including Danae Moore, Eric Bagley, Marc Wilson and Dana Short. Their team took home $40 and third place honors. In the end, everyone had a good time, and the spectators had a good time. Many students and staff members came by to cheer on their fellow classmates and co-workers, making for a fun day out in the sun.

Following the games, the Block and Bridle club held a concert dance at 9:00, featuring the band Oklahoma Southwind. The band played a variety of blues and rock, along with a couple of original num-bers. Their performance was great and attracted a fairly large group of students, and by the end of the night, most of the audience had ended up on the dance floor.

Block and Bridle would like to thank everyone who helped put it all together and all the particiants and spectators who came out to participate or just have a fun time. Everyone they talked to said that it was great and they had had an overall good time watching the games and attending the concert. With the Ag Olympics being a hit on campus, receiving five-star reviews, many cannot help but wonder (and hope) if a second Ag Olympics is in the works for next year.

Collegian wins OCMA award

By Kenton Schmidt

If you have been reading The Collegian, did you know you have been reading an award-winning college newspaper? That’s right! The Collegian was honored as the Best Overall Newspaper at the Oklahoma Collegiate Media Association annual conference! Staff writer, Brittany Shears, and graphic artist, Matthew Crook, were two of The Collegian students who made the trip to Stillwater, Okla. Brent Maldal, assistant Plano903 yearbook editor, also attended. In addition to the awards ceremony, student journalists attended lectures and workshops held by professionals working in the media.

The Oklahoma Collegiate Media Association was founded in 1975. Membership in OCMA is open to any Oklahoma educational institution offering two or more years of academic work accepted for a college degree. OCMA’s mission is to promote and improve student publications at Oklahoma’s colleges and universities. The term “publication” includes not only newspapers and yearbooks but also broadcast stations and websites. Laura Hayes, advisor for The Collegian and Director of Campus Communications said: “I am so proud of all of the students, and by the end of the night, most of the audience had ended up on the dance floor.

Block and Bridle would like to thank everyone who helped put it all together and all the particiants and spectators who came out to participate or just have a fun time. Everyone they talked to said that it was great and they had had an overall good time watching the games and attending the concert. With the Ag Olympics being a hit on campus, receiving five-star reviews, many cannot help but wonder (and hope) if a second Ag Olympics is in the works for next year.

Collegian wins OCMA award

By Kenton Schmidt

If you have been reading The Collegian, did you know you have been reading an award-winning college newspaper? That’s right! The Collegian was honored as the Best Overall Newspaper at the Oklahoma Collegiate Media Association annual conference! Staff writer, Brittany Shears, and graphic artist, Matthew Crook, were two of The Collegian students who made the trip to Stillwater, Okla. Brent Maldal, assistant Plano903 yearbook editor, also attended. In addition to the awards ceremony, student journalists attended lectures and workshops held by professionals working in the media.

The Oklahoma Collegiate Media Association was founded in 1975. Membership in OCMA is open to any Oklahoma educational institution offering two or more years of academic work accepted for a college degree. OCMA’s mission is to promote and improve student publications at Oklahoma’s colleges and universities. The term “publication” includes not only newspapers and yearbooks but also broadcast stations and websites. Laura Hayes, advisor for The Collegian and Director of Campus Communications said: “I am so proud of all of the students, and by the end of the night, most of the audience had ended up on the dance floor.

Block and Bridle would like to thank everyone who helped put it all together and all the particiants and spectators who came out to participate or just have a fun time. Everyone they talked to said that it was great and they had had an overall good time watching the games and attending the concert. With the Ag Olympics being a hit on campus, receiving five-star reviews, many cannot help but wonder (and hope) if a second Ag Olympics is in the works for next year.

Collegian wins OCMA award

By Kenton Schmidt

If you have been reading The Collegian, did you know you have been reading an award-winning college newspaper? That’s right! The Collegian was honored as the Best Overall Newspaper at the Oklahoma Collegiate Media Association annual conference! Staff writer, Brittany Shears, and graphic artist, Matthew Crook, were two of The Collegian students who made the trip to Stillwater, Okla. Brent Maldal, assistant Plano903 yearbook editor, also attended. In addition to the awards ceremony, student journalists attended lectures and workshops held by professionals working in the media.

The Oklahoma Collegiate Media Association was founded in 1975. Membership in OCMA is open to any Oklahoma educational institution offering two or more years of academic work accepted for a college degree. OCMA’s mission is to promote and improve student publications at Oklahoma’s colleges and universities. The term “publication” includes not only newspapers and yearbooks but also broadcast stations and websites. Laura Hayes, advisor for The Collegian and Director of Campus Communications said: “I am so proud of all of the students, and by the end of the night, most of the audience had ended up on the dance floor.

Block and Bridle would like to thank everyone who helped put it all together and all the particiants and spectators who came out to participate or just have a fun time. Everyone they talked to said that it was great and they had had an overall good time watching the games and attending the concert. With the Ag Olympics being a hit on campus, receiving five-star reviews, many cannot help but wonder (and hope) if a second Ag Olympics is in the works for next year.

Collegian wins OCMA award

By Kenton Schmidt

If you have been reading The Collegian, did you know you have been reading an award-winning college newspaper? That’s right! The Collegian was honored as the Best Overall Newspaper at the Oklahoma Collegiate Media Association annual conference! Staff writer, Brittany Shears, and graphic artist, Matthew Crook, were two of The Collegian students who made the trip to Stillwater, Okla. Brent Maldal, assistant Plano903 yearbook editor, also attended. In addition to the awards ceremony, student journalists attended lectures and workshops held by professionals working in the media.

The Oklahoma Collegiate Media Association was founded in 1975. Membership in OCMA is open to any Oklahoma educational institution offering two or more years of academic work accepted for a college degree. OCMA’s mission is to promote and improve student publications at Oklahoma’s colleges and universities. The term “publication” includes not only newspapers and yearbooks but also broadcast stations and websites. Laura Hayes, advisor for The Collegian and Director of Campus Communications said: “I am so proud of all of the students, and by the end of the night, most of the audience had ended up on the dance floor.

Block and Bridle would like to thank everyone who helped put it all together and all the particiants and spectators who came out to participate or just have a fun time. Everyone they talked to said that it was great and they had had an overall good time watching the games and attending the concert. With the Ag Olympics being a hit on campus, receiving five-star reviews, many cannot help but wonder (and hope) if a second Ag Olympics is in the works for next year.
Neon Voices II

In OPSU’s Centennial Theatre on Friday, April 8, Saturday and Sunday, music filled the auditorium with familiar songs from several different musicals as Oklahoma Panhandle State University students and alumni showcased their singing and dancing talents for the entire audience to see in their musical performance titled Neon Voices II. The auditorium was filled plenitudinous with a variety of different people who were all eager to see the show. Thirty-two different musical numbers from various musicals including Wicked, The Phantom of the Opera, Beauty and the Beast, and Hairspray were being performed by some of my own classmates and friends on stage. That made it that much more enjoyable to watch.

In addition, drivers who sent or read text messages were 91% more prone to drive out of their lane than that of drivers not doing so. The biggest problem of texting while driving is that the driver is 3 seconds behind what is going on the road, but I, myself, can’t say ‘I’m Perfect’. Because I’ve tested and driven on several occasions, but I try my best to refrain — as should the rest of the world.

The thing about this bill though is that when it becomes a law, the only repercussions would be if you are caught in the act — just like the seatbelt law and the littering law in some states. So what does this mean for students? Well honestly, I don’t think this will stop OPSU students from texting and driving because drinking and driving is an act prohibited by law, yet students seem to find themselves behind the wheel of a car while they are under the influence. Students don’t think texting and driving is bad as it is, especially when their school happens to be in the middle of nowhere. This may be because they think that since this place isn’t very populated, the chances of getting in a car accident while texting and driving are slim — but an important fact to remember is that an accident doesn’t always have to involve two cars.

Neon Voices II was definitely good show and each of the performers who participated should be very proud of all of the hard work they put into the show. Getting to experience firsthand some of the most popular musicals of our time being performed by some of our own classmates and friends was something truly special and made for a very enjoyable evening. All the hard rehearsal hours definitely paid off in the end. It was an awesome performance, and for this reason, I am really looking forward to any future performances here at OPSU.
Coach Steve Appel weighs in on his Aggies

By Jihad’ Wright

During a recent interview with the baseball Head Coach Steve Appel, I got a chance to get an assessment on the 2011 season for the Aggies. Having a 4-31 record up to this point in the season, the team has not played to its potential, and the season has been a huge disappointment to all Aggie fans. The players have had a hard time putting their skills and abilities all together throughout the course of a game and the season as a whole. Many losses have come by lack of finishing a game strong or coming out the gates ready to play. This has been the story all season long for a team that competes strong day in and day out; however, the results have been the same all season long due to a number of struggles the team faces.

When asked what the biggest struggle the team has faced throughout the season is, Coach Appel said that his team is very young and inexperienced in key positions. “We are still, as a young group, learning how to overcome adversity.” In a number of games this season, the Aggies have come out and taken early leads, but not fully having the grasp of starting fast and finishing strong, the team struggles with keeping the pressure on their opponents. In games decided by two runs or less, the team is 3-8. This is a key breakdown of how the team has failed to get over the hump in terms of overcoming adversity. Although the team endured a 27-game losing streak this season, Coach Appel says that his guys have never hung their heads in practice or when game time approaches. “Despite our struggles, this team is still one of the hardest—if not the hardest—working team on campus, and I do not allow any player to come out to our practice if he is not going to work hard.” As a coach, Appel also stressed the team’s desire to get better regardless of how the season has played out. “My desire to win as a coach is greater than letting our downs small kill me. Losing hurts, but it is my job to lead this team and continue to teach, continue to work on the rebuilding process.” When asked how he keeps the players focused and together, he talked about the importance of the players being eager to learn and hungry to win. “This is only one way to play for the Aggies, and that is by playing hard. Period.”

Coach Appel plans to continue to add to the team and develop the young players as the close of the season approaches. The players have not given up and are not done fighting through adversity as they continue to grow. “Recruiting and getting the young guys ready to go in the fall is the main focus. The business is a turntable—in baseball as well as in real life. As a coach, I don’t change, we only get stronger as a unit.”

Student athletes honored at ceremony

By Jade Welch

On Wednesday, April 6, OPSU hosted Student Athlete’s Day ceremony in the Student Union ballroom located inside the Aggie Grill. Athletics from all different sports gathered at this ceremony to enjoy good food and good company as several different athletes were rewarded for their accomplishments in school as well as athletics. It is a very difficult task to be a good student and athlete all in one, and it is because of this that those who can endure tedious workouts as well as find the time to study and make good grades deserve to be recognized and rewarded for this achievement both on the field and in the classroom.

Several people as well as athletes from all the different sports here at OPSU gathered in the Student Union ballroom in order to honor those particular athletes who have not only given their all in their sport but also have been able to uphold outstanding academic achievements. Kathy Turner, OPSU’s faculty of athletes representative, presented the numerous awards to members of the women’s and men’s basketball teams as well as the volleyball, football, baseball, softball, golf and cross country teams. The students who received the awards for their participation in athletics while holding at least a 3.0 grade point average. There were several athletes who were recognized for the hard work they have done in their sport while taking care of business in the classroom, and it was a very real opportunity to be able to watch each athlete who had accomplished this task walk to the front of the room and receive his or her award.

As an “ex-athlete,” I can understand how frustrating and difficult it can be for OPSU’s student athletes to put all their effort and heart into whatever sport they play just to turn around and find a mountain of homework that has been accumulating. For those athletes who have been able to achieve excellent grades while juggling collegiate sports, I applaud them. This just goes to show that OPSU not only has amazing athletes but also intelligent athletes, as congratulations to everyone who received the award, and it will be interesting to see how many new students as well as vet erns receive the award at the next Athlete’s Day ceremony.

OPSU hosts 2011 spring game picnic

By Jihad’ Wright

Once every spring, Oklahoma Panhandle State University holds its annual spring football game. This game serves as a progression tracker as far as what to expect from the team the following fall when the regular season gets underway. The “Blue vs. White Game” is usually arranged as a controlled scrimmage being underway. The “Blue vs. White Game” is arranged as a controlled scrimmage being underway. The “Blue vs. White Game” is usually arranged as a controlled scrimmage being underway.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.

The last few weeks have been tough for a lot of families living in the Panhandle while there has been a constant battle with wildfires around the area. In one day, a wildfire burned over 500 acres, destroyed three homes, four businesses and injured twelve people, says to the public, donations to the Red Cross will be welcomed and appreciated. The OPSU family is working towards the same goal, and the football team is eager to offer up assistance to the community in any way it can; they are up for it and willing to do what it takes to give back. In the great words of Coach Wright, “It’s a great day to be an AGGIE!”

The 2011 spring game will be held on April 30, 2011, while parents, students, fans and faculty are all invited to come out and support their team. Not only will they all have a chance to watch a great scrimmage but they will also be invited to the pro-game picnic held outside of the Science and Agricultural Building on our OPSU campus. Everyone is encouraged to come out and enjoy free barbecue and drinks before the spring game gets underway.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.

Although the spring game picnic is free to the public, donations to the Red Cross will be welcomed and appreciated. The OPSU family is working towards the same goal, and the football team is eager to offer up assistance to the community in any way it can; they are up for it and willing to do what it takes to give back. In the great words of Coach Wright, “It’s a great day to be an AGGIE!”

The 2011 spring game will be held on April 30, 2011, while parents, students, fans and faculty are all invited to come out and support their team. Not only will they all have a chance to watch a great scrimmage but they will also be invited to the pro-game picnic held outside of the Science and Agricultural Building on our OPSU campus. Everyone is encouraged to come out and enjoy free barbecue and drinks before the spring game gets underway.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.

TheAggie Grill.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.

The 2011 spring game will be held on April 30, 2011, while parents, students, fans and faculty are all invited to come out and support their team. Not only will they all have a chance to watch a great scrimmage but they will also be invited to the pro-game picnic held outside of the Science and Agricultural Building on our OPSU campus. Everyone is encouraged to come out and enjoy free barbecue and drinks before the spring game gets underway.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.

The 2011 spring game will be held on April 30, 2011, while parents, students, fans and faculty are all invited to come out and support their team. Not only will they all have a chance to watch a great scrimmage but they will also be invited to the pro-game picnic held outside of the Science and Agricultural Building on our OPSU campus. Everyone is encouraged to come out and enjoy free barbecue and drinks before the spring game gets underway.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.

The 2011 spring game will be held on April 30, 2011, while parents, students, fans and faculty are all invited to come out and support their team. Not only will they all have a chance to watch a great scrimmage but they will also be invited to the pro-game picnic held outside of the Science and Agricultural Building on our OPSU campus. Everyone is encouraged to come out and enjoy free barbecue and drinks before the spring game gets underway.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.

The 2011 spring game will be held on April 30, 2011, while parents, students, fans and faculty are all invited to come out and support their team. Not only will they all have a chance to watch a great scrimmage but they will also be invited to the pro-game picnic held outside of the Science and Agricultural Building on our OPSU campus. Everyone is encouraged to come out and enjoy free barbecue and drinks before the spring game gets underway.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.

The 2011 spring game will be held on April 30, 2011, while parents, students, fans and faculty are all invited to come out and support their team. Not only will they all have a chance to watch a great scrimmage but they will also be invited to the pro-game picnic held outside of the Science and Agricultural Building on our OPSU campus. Everyone is encouraged to come out and enjoy free barbecue and drinks before the spring game gets underway.

The picnic also serves as a meet-and-greet for prospective Aggies on recruiting visits, current Aggies, and Aggie alumni. Parents of new players as well as veterans will also get a chance to meet and enjoy the eventful day, all as a family of one.
Faces of our Faculty: John Townsend

By Rodrigo Carrillo

Oklahoma Panhandle State University has found such excellence.

Dr. John Townsend was born in Safford, Arizona. Although he did not mention his birth date, he assured the students at OPSU that he is still in shape enough to play football. After he was born, his family decided to leave Safford and head to Neosho, Missouri, where he attended school and eventually high school.

“Meeting our classmates and others in this industry is very important,” Dr. Townsend added. With so much time spent at OPSU, Dr. Townsend agrees that the school has increased substantially.

Dr. Townsend is an interesting teacher with many interesting favorites. He likes the color black, and his favorite animal is a dog. He enjoys listening to the heavy metal music, which, he put it, “is surprising” Dr. Townsend loves to eat flat breads which are very tasty, and one must know where to look in those “Those flat breads are what serve in heaven, my friend.” Townsend says. With red or green sauce? For his favorite spot, he loves to play golf and watch football. “I’m a Miami Hurricanes fan. I can’t explain it. I just am!” Other surprising facts about Dr. Townsend are that he loves video games, competitive sports and star gazing, and he is knowledgeable about who he admired. Dr. Townsend said that it was someone very dear to him, his grad school advisor. “If I could be half the person he is, I would be very happy.”

“Whether it’s knowing about agriculture or listening to heavy metal music, Dr. Townsend is the professor to go to. Very knowledgeable in the agriculture area, any student is lucky to take any of his classes.”

Senior Scene: Dee Dee Davis

By Daulton Perry

Horticulture is the industry and science of plant cultivation, including the process of preparing soil for the planting of seeds, tending, caring, harvesting, and marketing crops. Horticulture is the industry and science of plant cultivation, including the process of preparing soil for the planting of seeds, tending, caring, harvesting, and marketing crops.

This is the photo of April 27, 2011. Thanks to Mrs. McCargish, Dee Dee came to the wonderful world of horticulture early in her life. Whether it’s learning about agriculture or listening to heavy metal music, Dr. Townsend is the professor to go to. Very knowledgeable in the agriculture area, any student is lucky to take any of his classes.

Dee Dee Davis

Dee Dee Davis is the person to go to, but where can they find her? Well, she’s always around campus that is known as Oklahoma Panhandle State University.

When her high school graduating class consisted of 32 students, she was one of them. Because Joseph City is small, Dee Dee had to learn to take care of herself. So her tolerance of her younger siblings had to be on point while growing up. Her childhood play-time outside either hiking or fishing—or both. She comes from a big family that includes four brothers and one sister. She is the second oldest in her family, so she had to act as the older sister to her siblings. She was able to do this because of her upbringing.

“Meeting our classmates and others in this industry is very important.”

The livestock judging team will pick up next fall and end their season until next fall, the OPSU Livestock Judging Team: What do they do?

The livestock judging team is met up at OPSU in the fall and winter. As he put it, “is surprising.” Dr. Townsend loves to eat flat breads which are very tasty, and one must know where to look in those “Those flat breads are what serve in heaven, my friend.” Townsend says. With red or green sauce? For his favorite spot, he loves to play golf and watch football. “I’m a Miami Hurricanes fan. I can’t explain it. I just am!” Other surprising facts about Dr. Townsend are that he loves video games, competitive sports and star gazing, and he is knowledgeable about who he admired. Dr. Townsend said that it was someone very dear to him, his grad school advisor. “If I could be half the person he is, I would be very happy.”

The livestock judging team will pick up next fall and end their season until next fall, the OPSU Livestock Judging Team: What do they do?

There are 12 classes and they are organized into different categories such as market lambs, steers or heifers or breeding gilts, heifers, eves and bulls. Based on the class, the member judged them according to certain criteria, for example, muscle mass, structure, volume, leanness, etc. Additionally they take notes into the animals in the “reasons” section before coming up with their conclusion. In addition, they need to explain to a chosen contest official about how they placed the animals and why they placed them that way; this is done for the right of the 12 classes.

The livestock judging team started their winter season right after Christmas break and finished up to the National Western Stock Show in Denver, Colorado. Along the way, they stopped to practice in Huys, Kansas, Fort Collins, Colorado and Laramie, Wyoming. Being their first contest of the year, they did exceptionally well, winning a spot in the top in the carcass contest and Jessica Renroat made the top ten in the sheep judging contest. The seasonal season for sheep judging began on February 1 in Fort Worth, Texas, at the Southwestern International Livestock Exposition, Feb. 9 through Feb. 12 when both Jessica Renroat and Berry placed in the sheep judging contest individually and the team placed in the top five. Along the way, the members were able to look at some grade “A” livestock from various places in the United States, also get to see student livestock from our state and the students from OPSU can attend the National Livestock Championships in Louisville, Kentucky.
Telling you that what you are doing is no longer sheer pointlessness sucks all of the fun out of it. (Also, have I mentioned the fact that there may actually be more swearing than stabbing? There is also a lot of swearing.) The gore is realistic and honest, which makes it effective. However, it doesn’t show off their ability to play a variety of styles. They incorporate all of the different styles into their own music and make them something new and exciting. This record is a must-listen for all fans of pop/rock music. If you want a copy, check out Amazon.com, iTunes or the band’s website (www.bipolarecho.com). You can also find the dates of the band’s shows on their website, so you can even check out their live performances. I know that Bipolar Echo sounds familiar to you, there is a reader. EP stands for extended play, and comes along with a full-length album. This is a little bit different than others. For starters, I am not reviewing a mainstream band (more on that in a minute), but because it is also an EP instead of a full-blown album. "What is the difference," some of you may ask. I am glad you asked that, imaginary reader. EP stands for extended play, and comes from the day when music was recorded on records. (It’s like a CD, only bigger.) Back then, record companies would release smaller records called EPs with three or four songs on them to promote new bands or to give fans a kind of preview of a band’s upcoming work. The practice has stuck around. Now, a little bit about the band. If the name Bipolar Echo sounds familiar to you, there is a reason for that. If you have spent much time at OPSU, you have probably met at least one of the members. Those who spend a lot of time at the Noble Center have probably met Noble Center and Intramurals Director/Chair/Lead Coach and lead singer-keyboardist, Amber Fesmire. Anyone who has taken many history classes has most likely met Dr. Brad Duren who is also the band’s drummer. Those of you who hang around the music department may be familiar with Opsu student Jacob Whitey, the band’s rhythm guitarist. So, if you may also be familiar with Opsu’s bluegrass and lead guitarist Kevin Wolfe and bassist Romanesque.

Scream 4: The only victim here is meta-theatre

Okay, for those of you who aren’t English majors (I’m guessing most of you, let me explain the title of this article. Meta-theatre is a literary device wherein characters refer to the fact that their lives are very similar to those of regular guys who are following around the horsemen and trying to stop them from whatever it is they’re doing.

The book started out as a parody of The Omen originally but seemed to have evolved into something much more throughout the course of its life. Neil Gaimen is renowned for several comic books such as "The Sandman" and several novels as well; Terry Pratchett is known for his Disc World series, and when the two meet together, the book they’re formed is a very poignant, touching and funny look into very human characters and the way that bis-ernen or the antichrist, and it’s probably the funniest book involving both that you’ve ever read. You see you have the sum of Satan who is the antichrist, and he’s dropped off at the hospital, but there’s a bit of a mix up and instead of being given to the son of a powerful diplomat, the mix up causes him to be given to a somewhat dozy and traditional English couple who lives in a particularly bor- ing little hamlet.

Mixed up in this are a demon named Crow- ley and an angel named Aziphirale who have been hanging around Earth for so long that they wouldn’t be very happy about having it all end. So they join forces just this once to put a stop to it. When they realize that the baby that is the antichrist isn’t, they become very confused as they spend a significant time look- ing for him.

The other character mixed up in this is the fac-toy-descendant of the greatest prophet to have ever lived—Uncle Min-Agnes Farley, whose prophecies are so specific and precise that no one understands them until they come true. (She even predicted the rollback of her own burning where she was burned at the stake for being a witch, so she must quite sure to have all her affairs in order.)

The other people involved are the four horsemen of the apocalypse and the last two members of the witch hunters—a group of regular guys who are following around the horsemen, and trying to stop them from what- ever it is they’re doing.

This is a little bit different than others. For starters, I am not reviewing a mainstream band (more on that in a minute), but because it is also an EP instead of a full-blown album. “What is the difference,” some of you may ask. I am glad you asked that, imaginary reader. EP stands for extended play, and comes from the day when music was recorded on records. (It’s like a CD, only bigger.) Back then, record companies would release smaller records called EPs with three or four songs on them to promote new bands or to give fans a kind of preview of a band’s upcoming work. The practice has stuck around. Now, a little bit about the band. If the name Bipolar Echo sounds familiar to you, there is a reason for that. If you have spent much time at OPSU, you have probably met at least one of the members. Those who spend a lot of time at the Noble Center have probably met Noble Center and Intramurals Director/Chair/Lead Coach and lead singer-keyboardist, Amber Fesmire. Anyone who has taken many history classes has most likely met Dr. Brad Duren who is also the band’s drummer. Those of you who hang around the music department may be familiar with Opsu student Jacob Whitey, the band’s rhythm guitarist. So, if you may also be familiar with Opsu’s bluegrass and lead guitarist Kevin Wolfe and bassist Romanesque.

Ryan's Review

Bipolar Echo: Weird Days EP

By Ryan Bramblett

This article is a little bit different than others. For starters, I am not reviewing a mainstream band (more on that in a minute), but because it is also an EP instead of a full-blown album. “What is the difference,” some of you may ask. I am glad you asked that, imaginary reader. EP stands for extended play, and comes from the day when music was recorded on records. (It’s like a CD, only bigger.) Back then, record companies would release smaller records called EPs with three or four songs on them to promote new bands or to give fans a kind of preview of a band’s upcoming work. The practice has stuck around. Now, a little bit about the band. If the name Bipolar Echo sounds familiar to you, there is a reason for that. If you have spent much time at OPSU, you have probably met at least one of the members. Those who spend a lot of time at the Noble Center have probably met Noble Center and Intramurals Director/Chair/Lead Coach and lead singer-keyboardist, Amber Fesmire. Anyone who has taken many history classes has most likely met Dr. Brad Duren who is also the band’s drummer. Those of you who hang around the music department may be familiar with Opsu student Jacob Whitey, the band’s rhythm guitarist. So, if you may also be familiar with Opsu’s bluegrass and lead guitarist Kevin Wolfe and bassist Romanesque.

Scream 4: The only victim here is meta-theatre

By Ryan Bramblett

Okay, for those of you who aren’t English majors (I’m guessing most of you, let me explain the title of this article. Meta-theatre is a literary device wherein characters refer to facts that their lives are very similar to those of regular guys who are following around the horsemen and trying to stop them from whatever it is they’re doing.

The book started out as a parody of The Omen originally but seemed to have evolved into something much more throughout the course of its life. Neil Gaimen is renowned for several comic books such as "The Sandman" and several novels as well; Terry Pratchett is known for his Disc World series, and when the two meet together, the book they’re formed is a very poignant, touching and funny look into very human characters and the way that bis-
Middle East uproar; US aids Libyan rebels

By Rodrigo Carrillo

The conflict resulted in the death of human life and protection of property will continue, but operations that do not meet one of those three criteria will be shut down. C) Medical and dental facili- ties will remain open, although elective surgery and procedures will be postponed. Suicide, substance abuse counseling and crisis intervention will continue. D) De- pending on schools and education centers for service members will be open for use by private agencies for courses for which payment already has been made. Everyone must remember that this affects only gov- ernment employees. This does not mean private companies will close down. Yes, Wal-Mart will still be open, along with Urgent Care and your family doctor. House and Senate leaders acknowl- edge they are facing increasing resistance to approving temporary funding, mak- ing a shutdown more likely in April if an agreement cannot be reached. Some of our readers may think this will not have a big effect on people. Consider the govern- ment employs more than 14 million, yes I meant million, people. These people in- clude post office workers, police officers, state and local governments. Government employees make up 8% of all employed U.S. citizens. Someone please tell me how 14 million “employed” Americans are go- ing to deal without a paycheck. This one might hurt.

Poll Dancing
Should the US be involved in the Middle East?

54% Yes 46% No
Total Votes: 50

Ludicrous Laws
Let’s look at some more loony legislation from some of Colorful Colorado’s towns.

Alamosa
To own a dog over three months of age, one must obtain a license.

Arvada
Establishments which sell alcohol must have enough light- ing to read text inside them.

Boulder
It is illegal to permit one’s llama to graze on city property.

Pueblo
It is illegal to let a dandelion grow within the city limits.

Cripple Creek
It is illegal to bring your horse or pack mule above the ground floor of any building.
Question of the Week
Boxing is divided into different weight categories. What is the lightest weight category in professional boxing?
A. flyweight
B. bantamweight
C. featherweight

Riddle of the Week
I am a rock group that has four members, all of whom are dead, one of which was assassinated. What am I?

Fact of the Week
More people are killed by bee stings and lightning than by shark attacks.

Quote of the Week
“What do you want your Facebook status to say when you die?”

“Gone home. Maybe I’ll see you, maybe I won’t.”
-Jennifer Widener

“I’ll just want them to take it down and move on.”
-Victoria Westbrook

“By the time I die, I shouldn’t have a Facebook.”
-Beau Downing (and Hoss)

“If you fail to coach, you coach to fail.”
-Kenny Gipe

“Truth isn’t always beauty, but the hunger for it is.”
-Nadine Gordimer

Sudoku

The Theobalds Maze

Enter the maze at one of the four entrances on its perimeter and trace a route to the center of the maze. What is so unusual about this maze?

This is the shape of the maze at Theobalds, Hertfordshire, England.

“Ain’t no coffin gonna hold me down.” (Song lyrics to the new season of The Deadliest Catch commercial)
-Jon Geissler and Meg

“My funeral—everyone’s invited.”
-Katie Jennette
Wildfire season: The community thanks its volunteers

By Brittany Shears

It is springtime in the Panhandle, and most of us know by this time that along with the warmer weather come fast winds and erratic weather patterns. It also makes some perfect conditions for wildfires. So far this spring, fires have popped up throughout the Oklahoma Panhandle and neighboring Texas and Kansas areas. One of the big local fires this season started just outside Guymon, Oklahoma, and quickly spread, threatening not only farms and C&P land but homes and businesses as well on the south side of town. Unfortunately, it is delivered on that threat and burned down many homes and businesses on the south side of town—the smoke and flames also having caused many people to evacuate their homes. In addition to the mayhem in the field, car accidents were being reported on Highway 54 due to the thick smoke that was obstructing drivers’ vision. With the warm and windy conditions, the fire spread fast over a short amount of time. The Guymon and Goodwell Fire departments were in action and neighboring towns were not slow to respond and showed up to help. Fire departments included Tyronza, Hooker, Hardisty, Tarbox, Ector, Bosie City, Spearman, Grav- er and Griggs. This was not the first fire near Guymon this spring when neighboring fire departments have come to help out. One fire eleven miles east of Guymon on U.S. Highway 412 was fought by units from Guymon, Hardisty, Hooker, Goodwell, Tyronza, Bosie City, Spearman, Adams, Tarbox, Ector, Bosie City, Spearman, and Texas County Emergency Management, Hooker, Ector, Texas County Sheriff’s Office, Oklahoma Highway Patrol and many farmers who came out with their equipment to try and battle the flames.

While they may be taken for granted throughout the rest of the year, we owe a big thanks to our firefighters and volunteers. It is great to live in a country in which our neighbors literally do come to the rescue and help. Oklahoma Panhandle State University is proud to recognize the firefighters and volunteers on campus who brave the flames. On behalve of us here at The Collegian, thank you: Justin Col- lins, Cameron Nady, Triech Ramee, Marcus Beckley, Jese Urbie and Josh Knop. While this time of year is an exciting one with the upcoming summer and nice weather, it also brings with it the some dangers as well. Thank you to all our firefights- ers and volunteers, including all of our neighbors.

All helpful hands welcome! Let’s clean up Goodwell!

Community Clean-Up Day
Saturday, April 30
at 9:00 AM
Goodwell Town Hall

Cafeteria
Monday-Friday
Breakfast: 7:30 to 9 am
Lunch: 11 am to 1 pm
Dinner: 5:30 to 7 pm
Saturday
Breakfast: 8 to 9 am
Lunch: 11 am to 1 pm
Dinner: 5:30 to 7 pm
Sunday
Brunch: 11 am to 1 pm
Dinner: 5:30 to 7 pm

Library
Sunday
5 to 10 pm
Monday-Thursday
8 am to 10 pm
Friday
8 am to 4:30 pm

Carter Hall
Computer Lab
Monday-Thursday
8 am to 9 pm - except for scheduled classes
Friday
8 am to 4 pm
Sunday
1 to 8 pm
Will be closed during Finals Week except for classes giving exams in labs.

Aggie Grill
Monday-Thursday
7:30 am to 7:30 pm
Friday
7:30 am to 2:00 pm

Aggie Peers
The Aggie Peers meet every Wednesday at 12:15 pm
Hamilton Hall
Rm 308
Become part of the most active organization on campus.
Membership open to all.